Growing With the Country.

A paper which in these days of petition can grow to be seen times the size in seven years i cent times the line mever years as executably making red-letter history at a marvellous rate. Yet this exactly the claim made by the Nor'-West Farmer, of Winnipeg, in an article in its last issue. Not only has the paper grown to be seven times the size in point of reading matter furnished, but the circulation has also increased seven-fold in the same length of times. Such remarkable advancement certainty proves that the promotors are very much alive to the rapidly growing agricultural importance of this country, and are bound that their publication shall be in every way worthy to be known as the farmers' and ranchers' paper of this growing Canadian West. It is also no mean commentary upon the intelligence of certainly making rad-letter history at Am opening up a wood yard in a few days when I will carry all kinds o fire wood. Save your order for me.
